SOCIAL SCIENCES

The following courses are interdisciplinary electives intended as enrichments of the general liberal arts curriculum. They focus on broad issues of continuing importance that require multifaceted but integrated treatments from several disciplinary perspectives. At this time, they are not part of a formal program leading to a designated specialization. For further information on any of the interdisciplinary courses, contact the Office of the Dean of Arts and Sciences, 772-5121.

None of the interdisciplinary courses in the social sciences may be used toward the GER or the Distribution Requirement.

Jewish Social Studies

Program Office 1546 West Building; 772-5542

Program Director Robert M. Seltzer 1510 West Building, 772-5490

Coordinating Committee Friedman (Hebrew), Moses (Urban Affairs), Seltzer (History)

The interdisciplinary specialization in Jewish social studies consists of 36 to 39 credits leading to a BA degree. The courses form a combined major and minor with 24 to 27 credits dealing with Jewish studies taken in various departments and 12 credits constituting a minor to be chosen from a department or program approved by the Coordinating Committee of the Jewish Social Studies Program. Students must fulfill a language requirement either by passing a reading test in Hebrew or Yiddish with the aid of a dictionary or by successfully completing a one-year course in either language. There is opportunity to receive academic credit for fieldwork with a Jewish community agency, as well as for summer study programs in Israel and guided independent study.

General Education Requirement HIST 210 may be used to fulfill Broad Exposure/Stage 2, Group B. HEBR 281(W) may be used to fulfill Focused Exposure/Stage 3, Group A.

Distribution Requirement See Appendix A for the Distribution Requirement, which was replaced by the General Education Requirement and which may be binding on students who matriculated prior to fall 2001.

Latin American and Caribbean Studies

Program Office 312 North Building; 772-4285,6

Director J. Michael Turner

LACS Committee Angotti (Urban Affairs), Bermudez (Romance Languages), Crahan (History), DeWind, Edelman (Anthropology), Erickson (Political Science), Hammond (Sociology), Hernandez (Archives/Library), Miyares (Geography), Rodriguez (Africana and Puerto Rican/Latino Studies), Turner (History)

Latin American and Caribbean Studies is an interdisciplinary program that offers students the opportunity to learn about the history, culture, politics, society, and economics of the region and the region's relations with the United States. In the context of a growing and dynamic Caribbean and Latin American population in New York City, the program enables students to seek knowledge and an understanding of the origins of these peoples and their settlement in this country.

The specialization in Latin American and Caribbean studies as a major leading to a BA degree consists of 36 credits: 24 core credits for the major and 12 credits for the minor. The core courses for the major are drawn from the social sciences and the humanities and the arts. Students select courses for the major and minor components in consultation with the program's director or with a faculty member of the Latin American and Caribbean Studies Committee serving as an advisor.

The interdisciplinary specialization of the major, combined with the minor's emphasis on a traditional discipline, serves the program's graduates well, whether they choose to seek employment in public or private organizations, to pursue a professional degree, or go on for a graduate degree in the social sciences or humanities.

General Education Requirement AFPRL 141 and 243 may be used to fulfill Broad Exposure/Stage 2, Group C.

Distribution Requirement See Appendix A for the Distribution Requirement, which was replaced in fall 2001 and which may be binding on students who matriculated prior to fall 2001.

Internships The program arranges internships for Hunter College students to work with organizations based in New York City that promote Latin American and Caribbean human rights. During internships, students are expected to enroll in human rights-related courses, which can be used to satisfy core course requirements for the major.

Major The major requires 24 credits, of which 21 come from courses focusing on Latin American and Caribbean topics (no more than 6 credits may be drawn from any one participating department or program) and 3 from the program's seminar (LACS 434).

Minor The 12-credit minor, chosen by the student in consultation with the LACS director, is taken in a department that is a participant in the program or in one that is relevant to the student's academic or career goals. The purpose of the minor is to complement the major's broad interdisciplinary area coverage by providing exposure to the focus and tools of a traditional academic discipline.

Language Requirement Latin American and Caribbean studies majors are required to demonstrate a reading knowledge of Spanish, Portuguese, or French.
